

CHAIRMAN'S REPORT

It was lovely to see so many of you at our Coffee Morning at Trinity at the end of January, and to welcome so many new members. If you have friends and neighbours who would be interested in TWu3a, why not bring them along to a coffee morning (on the last Friday of the month at Trinity) or to one of our monthly meetings (on the third Thursday, but check the venue)? These meetings are free for everyone and members of the committee are always there and eager to tell newcomers more or to answer any questions you may have.

We are not yet sure when we shall be able to return to the Camden Centre for our monthly meetings and the meeting on Thursday 17th February will be held at the TW Christian Fellowship Hall again. David Tadd's talk on "The Forensic Investigation of Homicide" sounds intriguing. The venue for the March meeting has still to be decided, so please check nearer the time.

I am delighted to report that Philippa Bernstein has accepted the role of Events Coordinator and joined the committee. New volunteers have also stepped up to join the Events Team and they have already mapped out a varied programme of events for us. Thank you, Team! The Bingo Afternoon is advertised below – keep your eyes open for news of future events.

Stay well and please continue to take care,

u3a Summer school in Chichester in June

Did you know that if you are a U3A member you can attend one of the U3A residential summer schools held around the country? — including the one organised in Chichester University each June run by the South East Area Forum.

In 2022, the following subjects are being offered: Cycling; Earth matters; Four 19th & 20th century British poets; Fun with French; Family History; Hatha Yoga; Mah-jong; Maths - power & pattern; Music - Jazz; Blues & Folk Music in USA; Ukulele for beginners; and Walking on the Downs & coast.

You can find details and booking forms at <https://u3asites.org.uk/southeastu3aforum/home> but hurry, those who have been before really enjoy them and they get booked up fast.

LISTEN TO U3A RADIO ON PODCASTING PLATFORMS

The u3a radio podcast has now launched on podcast platforms, including Apple, Spotify and Google Podcasts. The episode can also still be listened to on our u3a YouTube channel, with captions.

In the January episode, the team discuss the Kindertransport learning initiative, talk to a member of u3a in Australia and hear about the milestone of 5,000 trees being planted in the u3a 40th anniversary wood.

One more little thing you could do to help the planet!

Many of us find reading a printed page easier than one on a screen. However, the printing and delivering of the Newsletter does entail a monthly cost in the TWu3a budget and is using more precious resources. You needn't be worried about printing application forms as an email or a phone call secures a place at events and outings. If you originally signed up for a printed copy of the newsletter and now have an email address please consider changing to the online version.

To make the change, please email Judy Horwood. Thank you.

Outings Coordinator

The first outing of the year to see Chicago, at Eastbourne's Congress theatre, in February is now fully booked. Our March outing to Hughenden Manor is also full, but you can go on the reserve list in case a member has to cancel nearer the time, please see the full details of this outing in January's newsletter.

In April we will be heading to Guildford to see the magnificent Hatchlands Park house and gardens. The land was purchased in 1750 by Admiral Edward Boscawen a naval hero. He had the house designed by architect Stiff Leadbetter and built it a few years later. Robert Adam, the celebrated Scottish neoclassical architect, interior designer and furniture designer, designed many of the interiors at Hatchlands. Admiral Boscawen's wife, Fanny, was a founding member of the blue stocking society. Since then, it has been owned by very wealthy families and housed a finishing school and a printing press. The mansion is now a family home to tenant Alec Cobbe and his fine furniture and paintings by Titian, Gainsborough and Joshua Reynolds. Also on display is Cobbe's collection of fine musical instruments, the largest in Europe, associated with famous composers including JC Bach, Chopin and Elgar. It is situated on the edge of the beautiful Surrey hills and surrounded by charming villages in this peaceful location just 45 minutes from central London.

If you would like to go on this outing the application form will be at the end of this newsletter.

Groups coordinator

Every member should have now received an updated "Groups Listing" either via email or as paper copies by post.

We have listed just over 100 interest groups. Many remained active over the last two years, some are just starting to meet again in person, others are not currently active, a few are full with waiting lists and a couple have closed.

Since the following groups are now full there might be someone reading this who would like to help us to start another Galleries & Museums group, London Explorers group No 7 or a Pub Lunch group?

Both Bridget (our Newsletter Editor) and I welcome photographs taken at all TWu3a get-togethers. Please check that the people in your photos are comfortable with having their photos taken and know that they might appear in a newsletter, the website or on our fb page.

Virtual Walks Group - Virtual Tour of the V&A British Galleries

The original purpose of the V&A Museum was to put art and design into context. Caroline's tour of the British galleries did just that. We saw a vast range of artefacts that demonstrated the life of historical high society including statues, tapestries, beds, furniture and even whole rooms.

The Bromley by Bow room from 1606 shows how panelling and tapestries were used to help insulate large rooms. The ceiling and oak panelling were saved from the parlour of a then country home of probably a London merchant. The house was being demolished in 1894 and started the official preservation of London's architectural history.

The great bed of Ware was famous for its size and slightly dubious carvings.

It has a mention in Shakespeare's Twelfth Night and was said to accommodate 4 couples by the standards of the day. The V&A bought it in 1931 and it was their most expensive purchase, being four times the annual budget.

The Norfolk House music room was from a aristocratic town house. These often had simple outside architecture with outrageous interiors. This room is full of gilded mirrors and ornate plasterwork with musical motifs Five or six rooms were arranged so that visitors progressed through them marvelling as they went with the most ornate as the climax.

Although the tour was, as always, informative, entertaining and fun there were many sad faces at the end as Caroline said her goodbyes. Caroline's sense of humour, incredible knowledge and obvious enjoyment in what she does will be greatly missed by those attending her walks. It is therefore comforting to know that Bob, who organises these things, will have her in mind for a future monthly meeting.

Group News

Many apologies for the errors that crept into the listing, and thanks to the group contacts who have pointed them out. I have now checked their Beacon database entries and will also look carefully on our TWu3a website. Please note the following corrections:

We normally meet in the Trinity cafe (Church Road) on the second and fourth Tuesday of the month at 10.00-10.30 for a couple of hours. Chess sets can be provided if you do not have one of your own.

Trinity's cafe will hopefully re-open in February. In the meantime please get in touch if you are interested, in anticipation of our Spring 2022 relaunch.

Michael Polkinghorne

Ramblers Too is a Monday morning walking group - with a good dash of socialisation alongside the walking. We walk locally around Tunbridge Wells and would welcome new members who feel they can manage 5-7 miles in good company. Last week's walk was greatly enlivened by meeting two people outside Groombridge who had been flying their North American kestrel called Klubba.

We were treated to Klubba coming out of her cage in their van for 15 minutes and sitting patiently on her owner's arm while we all admired her!

Last Month's Talk

Dr Nikki Gammans of the Bumblebee Conservation Trust

Gardening for pollinators

We all take pollination for granted and in the great scheme of things it occurs in a natural and sustainable way, But if we were to look in more detail we can see that there are some very interesting specifics. Bees pollinate 84% of our high value crops and 80% of our wildflowers. Britain has lost 97% of its meadows over the last 60 years – fewer flowers support fewer bees leading to fewer pollinators. Humankind has been finding more efficient ways to produce food using pesticides and fertilisers to improve growth. Grass rich pastures crowd out wildflowers and it is thought that neonicotinoids which protect the crops' seeds affect the brains of bees.

As gardeners and custodians of the natural world there are things we can do to help. Beautiful but highly cultivated garden flowers are not always an easy food source for our bees. Their tight heads restrict access and a native species will generally be better. Bees are usually active from March to October (although with our changing climate this is being extended) and so plants that will provide pollen throughout that period are necessary. Also bees have different tongue lengths and so can be very plant specific - 25 species only feed on Dandelions!

Here are just a few suggestions from the Bumblebee Conservation Trust.

Winter. Heather, Mahonia, Hebe, Hellebore

Spring. Lungwort, Comfrey, Blossom, Bugle, Rosemary

Early Summer. Allium, Sunflower, Strawberry, Globe Thistle, Foxglove

Late summer. Old English lavender, Cosmos, Lupin, Nasturtium, Scabious, Verbena

Top Tips

- * Bee hotels provide safe places for solitary bees to lay their eggs.
- * Refrain from mowing part of the lawn and see what other plants show themselves. Bees love clover.
- * If you don't have a lawn to turn into a flower meadow try creating one in a pot or two.

Hatchlands Park , East Chandon, Guildford on Wednesday 6th April 2022

In April we will be travelling to Surrey to visit Hatchlands Park and Gardens. The Park was purchased in 1750 by Admiral Edward Boscawen. Frances Boscawen, 'The First Lady of the House ' was a founding member of the Bluestocking Society.

The house was sold by Boscawen's widow Frances to the Sumner family of the East India Co and further alterations were made to the property and Parkland by both Father and Son. The house has some fine paintings by Titian, Gainsborough and Sir Joshua Reynolds as well as key-boards owned by Chopin, Elgar and Marie Antoinette, plus pieces of fine furniture.
