

CHAIRMAN'S REPORT

I hope you have noticed what a variety of events we organise for you! This month there will be Bingo on Friday 17th March (there is still time to join in) and, by popular demand, in April we are having another posh tea with music by Café Society at the Masonic Hall. The application form is at the end of this Newsletter. I am looking forward to both events, different though they are!

Last month I mentioned the very interesting talk which Greg Clark, our MP, gave to the Science and Technology Group and other members. Those of you who read the Courier, may have noticed the half page spread about this event which appeared in the paper on 24th February. Events like this, and our display at the Imago Volunteers' Fair in the Royal Victoria Place on 7th March, help to raise our profile but word of mouth is still one of the most effective methods of recruiting new members. New members bring new ideas and fresh enthusiasm – so please keep spreading the word!

Outings Coordinator

In May we will be travelling to see The Vyne in Basingstoke to explore this former Tudor powerhouse turned 17th century family home, set in gardens, woodlands and wetlands. It is a nationally recognised Treasure House with a pre-Reformation chapel, an Oak Gallery and tapestry room. The Garden has a Lime Avenue leading to a 17th century summerhouse and 600-year-old oak tree plus a walled garden, orchard and bird hide. If you wish to eat they have the Cosy Brewhouse tea-room serving light refreshments. There are also plenty of picnic areas. Should you wish to do some shopping, next to the tea room, is the shop (the former coach house), selling highlights from the National Trust ranges alongside locally sourced goods. If you wish to go on this trip, please see the application form at the end of the newsletter. To ensure a place send your application /email promptly, to avoid disappointment.

At the beginning of March, we went to Richmond, which included a visit to the theatre to see the Fisherman's Friends show. A full review of this day will be in next month's newsletter.

The April trip to Basildon Park is full with a waiting list.

Please note that all future emails regarding outings and u3a business should be sent to me on the following email address: jyoutings@gmail.com

Group News

London Explorers 3 visited the Guildhall Art Gallery and the Roman Amphitheatre that was rediscovered whilst work was being done on the Gallery Site. They walked to St Stephen Walbrook which is considered to be one of Wren's finest churches. In the centre is a huge circular sculpted stone block used as the altar. It was from this church that the Samaritan support service was launched. After lunch they had a fascinating tour of the magnificent Mansion House, the home and office of the Lord Mayor of London.

Sprechen Sie Deutsch?

Numbers at the German Conversation Group have fallen of late under the impact of Covid and as members' circumstances change and we are looking for new recruits. We meet on the second and fourth Tuesdays of the month at 10.00 a.m. in the homes of members by rotation. The standard can best be described as medium but there is a wide range of ability and conversation is lively. If your German is a bit rusty, come and polish it up. We are a friendly lot.

Please email Iain Hamilton on phone him on 01892 532654 .

The Theatre group thoroughly enjoyed a performance of Cinderella 23 from The Merry Opera Company.

The group are always grateful to Sue who sits up until after midnight to book tickets when they are released by TW Opera House.

RTW U3A High Fliers (London Explorers 2) at Biggin Hill Memorial Museum

Our guided tour started with a warm welcome from the Museum Director Katie, and there was an opportunity to have coffee before we started. Paul was our volunteer guide with an obvious enthusiasm and knowledge of Biggin Hill, and its history, especially its famous links with the RAF. It is well known for the role played by the young Spitfire and Hurricane pilots protecting London and the South-east during WWII.

The Museum has recently been refurbished and the exhibits were well-displayed. We were able to spend some time looking at these before moving to the Chapel to see the exhibition celebrating the work of the Air Transport Auxiliary, with some moving reminders of the bravery of the pilots who ferried the aircraft from factories to the airfields. 10% of these were young women, who had some notable stories to tell!

We were then shown round the Chapel by the Verger, Margaret, who was equally enthusiastic and knowledgeable about her subject. There was so much to see and do that all too soon we had to leave for our lunch venue at The Aperfield Inn, where we had a good meal and catch-up in comfortable surroundings.

More Group News

A few members of the MOTO2 group met to flip pancakes on Shrove Tuesday.

The Amblers walking at Scotney Castle

Having spent the cold winter months indoors learning a bit from Malcolm about portrait photography, the Photo group eventually set foot outside with a visit to Knole Park.

Knole House is a magnificent building with lots of tremendous rooms and historical artefacts to look at. There were lots of portraits of some very affluent beauties many of whom, it has to be said, had very strange proportions. We were all very challenged as we were not allowed to use flash and the cameras struggled in the low light. It is a good job that some of us remembered to use our mobile phones as they definitely handle the routine shots in dark rooms a lot better.

If the challenges of taking abstract, purple, and people photos taught us anything, it is that people's perception of purple varies throughout the spectrum from crimson to lavender! A lot of fun for all.

Ian Graham

Out and About Weekenders combined a winter walk, seeing the recycled plastic bottle ice sculptures, at Sheffield Park with a Sunday jazz lunch at Trading Boundaries.

Last month's talk

Nigel Stapple gave us an intriguing overview of local archaeology. Who knew so many sites had been excavated in our area? Southborough, Rusthall, Langton and TW itself are all rich in History but by digging underneath the ground so much more can be discovered. Most history of this area focuses on 1630 onwards because of the founding of TW as a Spa town so much of the history before that time has been overlooked and undiscovered.

The past easily gets lost as time moves on and archaeology seeks to uncover and record it before it completely vanishes. Archaeologists will survey, dig, collect, classify, film, photograph, map, draw and report their findings and then allow the present day to continue with new buildings and landscapes.

Nigel explained that as we do not naturally have flint in our area, finding flints at a dig are significant as are they must have been brought in and as such are worth looking at more closely. The word 'lithic' means 'related to stone' hence neolithic etc, being part of the stone age. Finding pottery is always useful as it can be dated more easily.

The recent dig on the Rusthall roadside has turned out to be quite a complex site. There is possible evidence of a prehistoric temple, a fish carving on a step, a large stone on the verge which has markings that could identify it as a marker for a natural spring, and pipes, flagons and stoneware from later times.

One locally produced stone tool is from the Palaeolithic and could be one of the oldest yet discovered in the country (between 30,000-300,000 years old).

And there is still so much to discover... if you are interested in local history you could have a look at these sites. The library also has a local studies room to investigate.

PADDOCK WOOD U3A STUDY DAY 2023 ---- CLIMATE CHANGE

The Natural World Under Threat was the overall title for the study day presented by Paddock WoodU3A to about 100 concerned members from neighbouring U3As, including several from Tunbridge Wells. The dangerous level of carbon emissions, pollution (particularly plastic pollution), and habitat destruction were the over-riding concerns of the day.

Charles May of the Paddock Wood Climate Change Group chaired the meeting and presented seven able speakers, including himself, who each concentrated on a different aspect of the central problem.

John Halladay of Greenpeace opened with an expert lecture – Oceans and Forests: Saving the Planet's Life Support Systems. From the melting of the Arctic, through misuse of the oceans by over-fishing and sea-bed drilling, to the deforestation of the Amazon, he showed the absolute necessity of conserving planet earth so that its resources are preserved and renewed. Levels of consumption and waste, especially in the wealthy developed nations such as the USA and ourselves, are much too high and must be reduced.

Tim Marks of PW U3A spoke on Biodiversity Loss.

Biodiversity includes all living things from the largest plants and animals to the millions of minute organisms that most of us know nothing about but on which the pyramid of life depends. Increasingly often we hear of yet another species on the danger list or completely extinct. There have been several mass extinctions in planet earth's history but previously each one has spread over millions of years. The current rate of loss is more than 10,000 times as fast.

Howard Lee of Hadlow College spoke about Climate Change and Farming: The Answer Lies in the Soil. Farmers need a stable weather pattern. Extreme weather events – fire, flood, drought – are economically disastrous. Agriculture can help moderate carbon emission by planting trees, reducing livestock, maintaining drainage and a varied habitat. People must help by eating a more plant-based diet, perhaps eating meat only once a week, and by growing and buying locally, thus reducing air-miles on imported food.

Charles May suggested some Tech Solutions to the Climate Crisis – primarily the development of renewable energy to replace fossil fuels. Wind, solar, tidal and geothermal power may be expensive initially, but all show a rapid reduction in cost as their use increases. Today's technical aim is to improve and increase the power and efficiency of batteries.

David Mairs of the CPRE spoke of Climate Change and the Countryside with particular reference to Kent and Matthew Bailey of TWBC, Reducing Carbon Footprint, analysed the council's carbon emissions. The waste collection service is responsible for the biggest carbon output. To reduce carbon the council is installing more solar panels, LED lights, etc.

Finally John Hurst of the Green Party talked about National Policy and Targets on Climate Change with a resume of the UK's attitudes and political climate plans, successful and otherwise, during the current century. He hopes for a fairer and cleaner society.

The problem of controlling carbon and reducing pollution was central to every lecture. We must all accept responsibility for our share of the damage caused by the way life that we have come to regard as our natural right. Already minute particles of plastic, discarded in the oceans and the soil, have been ingested by fish and animals, spread through the food chain and can now be found in food, drinking water, milk and even in people. Who knows what harm it may do to the future health of our grand-children and their families?

Thankfully a small amount of optimism was allowed provided people are willing to change their habits enough – 'people' meaning both individuals and nations. At the beginning of the day John Halladay presented us with that wonderful photo of the earth taken from space and quoted Marshall McLuhan. "There are no passengers on Space-Ship Earth. We are all crew."

Helen MacNab
